Nazis Mop Up South Of Norway

Front Is Established Against Any British Attacks and Extends 50 Miles

Ski Troops Fight Norwegian 'Snow Birds' Battle Germans East of Oslo

Stockholm, April 17 (AP).—German troops hastened mopping up operations in southern Norway today behind a potential line of defense extending from the Atlantic port of Trondheim to the Swedish frontier, 50 miles away.

The front, apparently planned as a bulwark against possible attack by British troops reported to have landed on Norway's northern shores, was established yesterday when the invading Nazis gained control of an important railway cutting across the country's narrow "waist."

The only German armed forces north of Trondheim appeared isolated in the vicinity of Narvik, 400 miles away, and there was increasing evidence that the invaders intended to concentrate on consolidating their position behind the newly established line in middle Norway.

This theory was supported by official Berlin statements minimizing the importance of operations at Narvik, which Norwegian sources said already had been occupied by the allies, and emphasizing the strength of the German position in the south.

Observers pointed out that the Germans apparently have control of virtually all strategic points on the Norwegian coast below Trondheim, including the ports of Kristiansund, Bergen and Stavanger.

Severed lines of communication made it impossible to obtain exact knowledge of German operations in southern Norway, but there were reports of scattered fighting in which Norwegian troops were said to be retreating.

Is Reported Occupied
Kongsvinger, northeast of Oslo, and about 30 miles from the Swedish frontier, was reported occupied by the Germans after street fighting with a small force of Norwegian soldiers.

Norwegian military headquarters announced that ski troops had made a successful counter attack on the flank of German forces near Hakadal, east of Oslo, but said that further south the defenders were retreating before strong Nazi units.

Scattered remnants of the Norwegian army continued to pour across the southern border into Sweden, where they were disarmed and interned.

The Norwegians said their positions in the Fosheim district, 125 miles northwest of Oslo, still were intact. They reported that two German planes had been shot down yesterday and said that the crews of three other Nazi planes which made forced landings south-east of Oslo had been destroyed.

German sources announced the surrender of several thousand Norwegian officers and men, who, they said, would be treated as prisoners of war.

Strong German forces were reported moving south out of Trondheim, apparently with the object of making contact with Nazi forces driving north from Oslo.

There were unconfirmed rumors of naval fighting off the southern tip of Norway.

Advices reaching Stockholm said the Germans had gained control of the railway from Trondheim to the Swedish border, by an audacious ruse.

Through false information supplied railway employees, the Germans gained free passage for a train crowded with Nazi troops.

The Norwegians, believing the train was loaded with their own soldiers, permitted it to pass unhindered under the guns of Hegra fortress to Storlien Heights, three miles from the Swedish border.

Detachments Drop Off
As the train progressed, the Germans dropped off strong detachments to guard bridges and strategic points.

Still another German ruse, it was said, caused the Hegra fortress to fire on a Norwegian train in the belief it contained German troops.

Although Hegra fortress remained in Norwegian hands, advices from Storlien said the Germans had succeeded in bringing more troops over the railroad last night to strengthen their grip on the line.

The correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported after a trip through the area that the Germans were guarding all stations along the railway.

A spokesman for the Norwegian legation in Stockholm conceded that the defense forces in southern Norway were disorganized and that they had lost most of their munitions and equipment at the outset of the lightning Nazi invasion of April 9.

Although Norwegian military headquarters has announced the

Swiss High Command Takes Added Precautionary Steps

Berne, April 17 (AP).—The Swiss high command today increased precautionary military measures throughout the country. Armed sentries were placed in public telegraph offices in Berne and other cities, and soldiers posted at both ends of rail and road bridges as was the case last September at the outbreak of the European war.

Officials said the new steps were designed to bring the country back to the strong footing of September, when the country was fully mobilized and prepared for "any eventuality."

Reports from the frontier zone indicated that large forces of German troops which were concentrated in the German provinces of Baden and Wurttemberg earlier this spring had been put back in this southern German region north of Switzerland's frontier. They had been withdrawn when Germany moved in on Denmark and Norway.

Reports reached Basel that 15 German divisions had returned to this region.

Basel police arrested a man they caught dropping in a post office box several mail bags full of German propaganda addressed to Basel citizens. They released him, when he proved to be an employee of the German consulate in Basel.

The man, whose name was not disclosed, said he was mailing the propaganda on orders of the consulate.

Basel police referred the matter to the political department in Berne, where steps are being taken to guard against a repetition of such propaganda distribution.

Several Thousand Balkan Bloc Has Norwegians Taken Stern Treatment As War Prisoners For Nazi 'Column'

Men Will Be Treated Like Captives of Conflict, Germans Say; Plot on King Denied

Oslo, April 17 (AP).—Several thousand Norwegian officers and men have been captured by German troops within the last few days, the chief commander of the Nazi forces in Norway announced today.

It was said the men, whose names will be published, are to be treated as prisoners of war.

(Germany, declaring she went into Norway to "protect" her from allied threats, never has declared war on Norway. However, she has said she would use stern measures, if Norwegian resistance continued.)

Reports reaching the German-held capital said that several Norwegian regiments decided to lay down their arms when their Norwegian commanders gave them a choice of fighting the Germans or surrendering.

Denial Is Published

Oslo newspapers, published under the watchful eyes of the German invaders, carried a German denial of statements that German bombers and planes attempted to kill King Haakon.

(It was reported in London Sunday that the Norwegian government had informed the British government that German aircraft evidently had orders to attack King Haakon personally "as they are bombing each successive place he stays in.")

"The proclamation in which King Haakon says so either was fabricated or the king was misled by irresponsible advisers," the denial declared, and added:

"The Norwegian government camarilla continues its hopeless fight north of Oslo, cooperating with the Norwegian general staff and admiralty, and King Haakon is being dragged along with them."

"During the flight through the woods and villages, the king has had no occasion for orienting himself to the true conditions in Norway. Everywhere the German-occupied areas are peaceful."

Last Desperate Attempt

"The pro-British cliques are making a last desperate attempt at misusing King Haakon's name to throw dirt on the German army, especially the air force, which is fighting strictly according to international law."

In a broadcast over the German-supervised Oslo station, Norway's Bishop Eivind Berggrav said that on a trip yesterday into

Sympathizers Within Area Will Be Eliminated to End Subversion to Favor Germany

Budapest, April 17 (AP).—South-eastern Europe's little nations, fearing that the German war machine may soon turn in their direction, took stern measures today to eliminate Nazi sympathizers within their borders.

In Yugoslavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, Greece and Turkey, police launched nationwide investigations of resident German groups and individuals.

In Hungary, Premier Count Pal Teleki, backed by Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy, prepared for an even stiffer battle with Nazi sympathizers within the premier's own party. The Hungarian Nazis seek to restore former Premier Bela Imredy to power for outright cooperation with Germany.

Governmental action, to stamp out "Fifth Column" activity (born from within a country by foreign political interests) was accompanied by intensified military

Blockade and Bans Cut U. S. Foreign Trade $1,300,000,000

Experts Say That More Than Half of Nation's Foreign Business Has Been Interrupted

Washington, April 17 (AP).—Great Britain's blockades in the Atlantic and Pacific, coupled with President Roosevelt's extension of the combat area forbidden to American ships, have interrupted or hampered American foreign trade involving nearly $1,300,000,000.

Other wartime hazards and restrictions—the threat of German raiders, a Japanese blockade in the Far East, the "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality act—boost the figure even higher.

Experts here estimate that more than half of the country's foreign trade has been either eliminated or affected. The 1939 foreign trade total was $3,177,344,138.

The combat area keeps Ameri-

Rumanians Take Long Nazi Lease

Senate's Acceptance Is Provisional; Army's Officers Say Action Is Jeopardy

Defends Bill

Sisesti Declares Bill Will Be Beneficial to Rumania

Bucharest, April 17 (AP).—The Rumanian Senate provisionally accepted today a government bill to give Germany a 30-year lease on almost 100,000 acres of timber—despite testimony of army officers that the lease would jeopardize national defense.

Ionescu Sisesti, minister of agriculture, defended the bill on grounds that it was part of an economic understanding with Germany which greatly benefited Rumania.

Military experts said the vast forest reserves in central Rumania constituted a natural defense line. High-ranking officers declared that enactment of the bill would be a great strategic error, allowing Germany to send a large corps of experts and workmen into forests located at "the most vulnerable spot in the country" on the old Rumania-German border.

Sisesti said the Germans should be allowed to build a railroad and establish factories there to carry out lumber operations.

The agriculture minister said the Germans had agreed to replant cutover land and to train Rumanians in forest culture.

Germany previously had protested Bucharest's embargo on wheat exports and temporary stoppage of oil shipments and it was acknowledged in official quarters, Rumania is in an extremely difficult position.

Clodius Complains

Dr. Karl Clodius, head of the German trade delegation which has been negotiating here for weeks, was said to have complained that the Rumanian government's new restrictive measures violated German-Rumanian trade agreements which the Nazis insisted they were going to honor.

Rumania, in some years, has exported about two-thirds of German wheat.

State Places Rabies 'Lid' Upon Esopus

Dr. George W. Ross, health officer of the town of Esopus, this morning received word from the state health department that a rabies quarantine was placed on that town, owing to the discovery of a rabid dog that had bitten a woman last Friday.

It is expected that the town board working with Dr. Ross, will establish measures to see that it is strictly enforced.

In Kingston, Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said that there were no new developments in the rabies situation here. He pointed out that dog owners were cooperating with the city authorities in enforcing the quarantine provisions and that but a few dogs were now to be seen on the streets.

Anglo Warplanes Bomb Base At Trondheim; New Submarine 'Thistle' Is Thought to Be Sunk

British Steamer Burns Off Southern Coast

Englishmen in the foreground are watching the British passenger steamer Barn Hill burning off the south coast of England. British authorities announced five members of the crew had been killed when the Barn Hill was attacked and set on fire by a Nazi bombing plane. The British also said the Barn Hill was not armed and was not in a convoy.

Unions Are Tested By 137,000 Voters In Motor Factories

Year-Long Battle Between C.I.O. and A.F.L. to be Decided in General Motors Plants

Detroit, April 17 (AP).—A year-long battle between CIO and AFL auto workers unions for dominance in General Motors Corporation plants culminated today in National Labor Relations Board elections involving nearly 137,000 employees.

The workers, leaving their jobs at times designed to cause the least interruption of production, cast their ballots at polling places inside the plants.

Most of them marked their preference either for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), the United Automobile Workers (AFL), or "neither." In individual departments of a few plants, Pattern Makers and Die Sinks' Unions, both AFL organizations, were on the ballot.

The election was the largest ever attempted by NLRB, with more than twice as many eligible workers as cast ballots in a Chrysler Corp. poll several months ago which the UAW-CIO won by a large majority.

Hundreds Employed
Hundreds of election officials were employed by the board; in Michigan alone, there were 90,000 eligible voters, there were 137 polling places. The total vote may be larger than that cast in any one of several of the states in the 1936 presidential election.

The elections in 59 plants were set by the NLRB after the corporation and unions agreed to stipulations on them. Last night the NLRB regional office announced that two small G. M. divisions in Detroit also would cast votes today. The ballots in these departments will carry a choice of the JAW-CIO, the Independent Mechanics Educational Society of America, and the ALF Pattern Makers.

Another development in the struggle between UAW-CIO and UAW-AFL came on the eve of the election. Postal officials in Detroit announced that mail impounded here a year ago when ranks of the auto workers' union were torn by an internal struggle that finally split it into two groups, had been turned over to the AFL group headed by Homer Martin. The mail includes 14 bags of first class mail and 25 bags of third class mail. A court suit over assets of the original UAW has not been decided.

Today's elections will determine bargaining representation for individual plants, except that the corporation has agreed to collective negotiations for all plants won by each union on "issues that are common to all" such plants.

Counting of the ballots will begin at 10 a. m. standard time tomorrow in cities where the plants involved are located.

None of Them Worked

Memphis, Tenn., April 17 (AP).—Good intentions don't count so much with the Memphis police. In the midst of a campaign against bicycles without lights, they arrested a negro last night whose wheel had 42 lights and reflecting devices attached. None of them worked.

Slight Detour 38 Miles for Plumber

Philadelphia, April 17 (AP).—Mrs. Michaela Karpinski, 70, left her washing machine running and went to find a plumber nearby. She walked 38 miles before she discovered she was going the wrong way—and she never did find the plumber.

She began her trek Monday and was found yesterday on railroad tracks at Coatesville. She said she became lost near her home and, knowing the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks led past her house, she mounted the embankment and started walking.

Prospect House Burns at Hunter

Cause of Fire Is Unknown; Plans Were Made for Summer Opening

Prospect House on Main street, Hunter, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday evening, despite the efforts of village fire fighting equipment. The large four-story frame building was located at the lower end of the village just across the bridge and stood apart from other properties on the main street. A laundry on the premises was saved.

Flames were discovered at the rear of the hotel building shortly after 9 o'clock last night and spread rapidly through the frame structure which was closed at the time. Plans had been made to open the hotel for the summer season.

Owned by the Brook-Mount Holding Corporation, Inc., of New York city, it was reported that there was some insurance carried by Hunter and Catskill agencies but the amount was not definitely known.

Because of the fact that the hotel stood on rather spacious grounds some distance from adjacent structures the flames were confined to the hotel proper. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

U. P. A. Food—Electrical Show Opens Monday for Whole Week at Auditorium

The annual food and electrical show sponsored by the local U.P.A. stores will open Monday in the municipal auditorium and will be open all week with interesting exhibits.

The officials of the Ulster Provisioners Co-operative Association, sponsors of the U.P.A. stores, under the direction of Martin J. Schleede, general chairman of the show committee, plans to be busy Saturday night and all day Sunday directing workers who will be transforming the auditorium into a mammoth store displaying the latest developments of the food and electrical household equipment industries.

Items of equipment such as refrigerators, show cases, etc., will be moved into the auditorium and positioned. It is expected and planned to have all exhibits placed and ready Sunday night when grocers from all over the state will have a preview of the set-up at the auditorium.

Monday evening the show will open to the public and continue all week, every afternoon and evening, through Saturday.

This year's show will be larger

Stark Says Service Would Favor Any Move to Drop Arms

Conference at End of War Would Get Complete Backing, Provided World Agreed

Washington, April 17 (AP).—Admiral Harold R. Stark told the Senate naval affairs committee today that the navy would welcome a genuine attempt at disarmament when the European war ends.

The chief of naval operations asserted, however, that if a disarmament conference were called the United States should insist that other nations make "a clean breast" of their naval strength.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) asked Stark whether the navy would want to continue its present construction program unabated in event of a European peace.

"If I thought we could get a disarmament conference," the admiral replied, "and if I thought the other fellow would live up to it, I would be perfectly delighted." But he said that the navy ought to have its requested authorization for an 11 per cent increase in tonnage which would be provided by a pending $655,000,000 expansion bill.

If this increase is granted, he said, the navy plans to spend about $3,800,000,000 in the next six years building up to authorized strength.

Asks "But" Clause
Lucas said he wanted to be sure that if Congress approved the expansion it would not be committing itself to a construction program regardless of changes in the world situation.

Lucas said he had noted some predictions that the United States would be in the war within a year.

"If there is a naval officer on earth, that wants war," Stark replied.

British Sources Report Large Fire Was Seen at Huge Airdrome by Fliers

'Sub' Carries 53

Undersea Craft Was of Triton Class and Is Long Overdue

London, April 17 (AP).—The air ministry announced today that British warplanes had carried out bombing attacks on the airport at Trondheim, strategic German-held port on Norway's west coast, and on a seaplane base nearby.

The ministry's communique follows:

"During last night Trondheim airdrome was bombed by heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force. A large fire was seen to break out as a result of this attack."

"Subsequently a bombing attack was also made on an enemy seaplane base in the vicinity."

The crew of a Sunderland flying boat—a British "flying battleship"—described a German bombing attack on a destroyer and their own plane in a Norwegian fjord.

They said that they had alighted when six German planes came over and that their pilot zig-zagged on the surface to dodge the hurtling bombs.

They said that neither the destroyer nor the flying boat was hit although 24 bombs were dropped and that the only damage was done by two machine-gun bullets which pierced the flying boat's fuselage, one of them hitting an officer in the knee.

The fliers laughed at a German report of yesterday that "both a British cruiser and a 'flying battleship' were sunk by bombs."

Britain disclosed the loss of one of her new submarines, the Thistle, while her forces in Norway apparently were racing the Germans for control of the strategic port of Trondheim.

'Sub' Carried 53

The Thistle was a 1,575-ton vessel of the Triton class, intended for general service, and normally carried 53 men. The admiral merely announced that she was overdue from operations in the North Sea and must be considered lost. She was the fifth acknowledged loss to Britain's undersea fleet since the war started.

(Official German reports in Berlin also listed a British destroyer of the "Tribal" class as sunk and a British battleship and transport hit by heavy air bombs.)

An admiralty spokesman said the admiralty declined to issue denials of German claims which might give the Germans valuable information.

Military observers expressed the view that a drive for Trondheim was developing as the first phase of British land operations in Norway.

They said that British forces already in control of Narvik, Norway's northern port, were believed to be moving south toward a German army pushing north from Oslo and Bergen in an attempt to cut Norway in two and retain the southern half, which contains almost everything of value in the invaded kingdom.

Trondheim, seaport and railroad junction on a long, deep, rocky fjord, is the key to this operation, they said, because whichever side controls it has an immense advantage.

Nazi troops hold Trondheim, having landed there in the first few hours of the invasion. But military sources here said the German garrison is not strong enough to resist the British and is being reinforced from the south.

Germans Are Vulnerable

Despite their possession of Norwegian forts with big guns sweeping all water approaches, these sources declared, the Germans in Trondheim are vulnerable to attack from the sea.

One strategic value to Trondheim is its airport which, although not so large as that at Stavanger, would help air operations both in northern and southern Norway. It also is linked by railroad to Bergen, Oslo and Swedish ports on the Gulf of Bothnia.

A special recruiting office was opened here today to help the Norwegian legation handle the flood of volunteers for Norway's defense forces.

Erik Andreas Colban, Norwegian minister to London, who talked with Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday, was believed to have stressed the importance of immediate allied help to Norwegians in southern Norway before Germany could solidify her hold on that region.

Norwegian quarters in London argued that this was the most important task for the allies and that their ultimate objective must be recapture of Oslo, the Norwegian capital.

One third of the country's industrial facilities are concentrated

Crowds came running when this bridge across the Kaw river at Kansas City, Kansas, began to burn. Wind-fanned flames, feeding on the asphalt-treated wooden flooring, threw off these clouds of smoke. Some of the fallen iron work of the quarter-mile-long bridge can be seen at left. Other sections fell in the river.

Severe Drop in Stock Averages

Stock averages suffered their most severe decline in dealings on the Stock Exchange Tuesday that has been witnessed in some little time. The heaviest drop was in the fourth of trading when 410,000 out of the day's total of 1,510,000 shares changed hands. Industrials in the Dow-Jones averages opened slightly below Monday's close, showed small advances until noon, then slid downward to a low point of 147.98 at 2 o'clock. There was some improvement toward the close, the final figure being 148.18, a net loss for the day of 1.54 points. Rails average closed at 30.64, off .34 for the day and utilities had a net decline of .32 point, to 24.81.

Explanations for the action of the market do not explain too satisfactorily. Rumors of various kinds, one of them around noon to the effect that Rumania had been invaded, are said to have unsettled the market. Some stocks reacted to fears that hostilities in Europe would spread still further, but on the other hand some of the "war babies," which have been showing strength, also weakened. One commentator observes that "the market seemed to suffer from a combination of influences, some technical and within the market and some due to nervousness induced by outside affairs."

There was widespread weakness in domestic issues on the Amsterdam Bourse. Demand was negligible and the market closed near the lowest levels of the day, while leading rubber and sugar issues were down from nine to 13 points. London closed generally steady after an inactive session. Activity on the Paris Bourse was restricted, but the trend was firm Tuesday on allied successes in Norway. Reports were that the Berlin Boerse witnessed another sharp decline on Monday.

The general staple price level again rose sharply Tuesday on broadening of speculative and consumer demand, and war developments. The Dow-Jones commodity index gained .64 point, as prices rose for the third consecutive day. Wheat prices went to the highest level of the season, May contracts going to 110 1/2 and at the close futures showed a gain of 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. On reports of extensive planting in the south the cotton list closed up five to 16 points for the day.

The rubber market moved upward sharply and futures closed as much as 38 points higher as there were unconfirmed rumors that ocean freight rates from the Far East might go up as much as 20 per cent. Tallows went up as much as 14 cents a pound in New York, to five cents, delivered, as soap manufacturers contracted for as much as 600,000 pounds.

Business news yesterday continued to reflect good first quarter earnings. Auto sales for the first ten days of April indicated a continuation of high volume and first estimates are that carloadings for last week showed an advance for the first time in three weeks.

General Foods Corp. report for quarter ended March 31 shows betterment over the 1939 quarter, net being equal to 82 cents a common share, after preferred dividends, vs. 74 cents a year ago. General Electric Co., for the same quarter had net of $1,951,450, or 41 cents a common share, vs. net of $7,373,431, or 26 cents a share in the 1939 quarter. Electric Auto-Lite, net of $2,485,280, vs. $1,620,903 year ago. General Cigar Co. net of $282,420, or 41 cents a share, vs. $136,938, or ten cents a share in 1939 quarter. McGraw-Hill Publishing, net of $238,580, or 40 cents a share, vs. $155,723, or 26 cents a share in like period last year. United Cigar-Whelan, loss of $89,674, vs. loss of $193,679 in 1939 quarter. Sutherland Paper, net of $201,140, or 70 cents a share, vs. net of $115,652, or 40 cents a share last year.

Southern Kraft Corp. shows big gain in earnings last year, net being $2,339,001 compared with net of $1,037,211. New York Federal Reserve Bank reports that department store sales in the New York area for March showed an increase of 0.7 per cent over March 1939. Apparel stores sales showed a decline of 3.2 per cent from last year's month. In the Hudson Valley district department store sales in March were 8.6 per cent ahead of March 1939.

New York, April 17 (AP)—A dwindling line of school-teacher pickets, protesting what they described as Mayor LaGuardia's "starvation" school budget, marched in front of city hall all night and vowed to continue their demonstration until afternoon. As daylight came, the 12 who remained of an original 150 held a "sunrise" service at the foot of Benjamin Franklin's statue in City Hall Park, offering a "prayer" for teachers as well as for the head of estimate, which must pass the budget. Crux of the protest was a proposal to drop 600 elementary school teachers. Public hearings on the budget before the board of estimate began yesterday and were scheduled to continue today.

Blockade and Bans Cut U. S. Foreign Trade $1,300,000,000

Shipping from carrying goods in the country's principal market, northern and central Europe, here American exports totaled $1,172,948,023 last year.

Report Is In Conflict
(The commerce department reported yesterday that American exports during the first seven months had increased 33 per cent. Part of this increase, however, was accounted for prior to the strict blockades and before the first or central European—continental zone was proclaimed. Another portion antedated the recent extension of the zone to include northern Europe.)

Soviet Russia is the object of Britain's latest blockade measure. Ronald H. Cross, British blockade minister, told the House of Commons yesterday that Britain was asking all practicable steps to detain American cargoes en route to Leningrad, the Soviet Far East—port, whenever it was suspected they were really destined for Germany via the trans-Siberian railroad.

What sections of the world are left comparatively unobstructed to American trade?

Asia, except for neutrality act restrictions applying to belligerent possession. Total exports to Asia last year were $560,796,160.

Oceania, embracing Australia, New Zealand, British Oceania and French Oceania, to which exports totaled $79,505,231. Neutrality act provisions likewise apply here, however, and German submarines surface raiders may legally all shipments of contraband.

Africa, to which American exports totaled $115,110,354 worth of goods. Here, too, there are restrictions relating to the belligerents.

American ships may not go to certain portions of Canada; they may not carry war materials to Canada, to the British or French West Indies, or to allied possessions elsewhere in the hemisphere. Title to goods destined for those lands must pass to foreign purchasers before they leave the United States.

By contrast, American trade elsewhere in the western hemisphere is generally free. To North America exports totaled $605,532,026, and to South America $329,385,892, an aggregate for the hemisphere of $1,135,937,918.

Pope Calls for Prayers

Vatican City, April 17 (P)—Pope Pius XII called upon the faithful throughout the world today to pray for the return of peace. The pontiff's plea was made in a letter to his secretary of state, Luigi Cardinal Maglione, recalling he had requested a similar crusade of prayer last year when talk of armed strife, the precursor of war, held all in repudiation.

New Search Is Made For Amelia Earhart

Springfield, Mass., April 17 (P)—A new search for Amelia Earhart Putnam, long missing woman flier, and her navigator, Captain Frederick J. Noonan, is being made in the south Pacific by Captain Irving Johnson of the globe-girdling schooner Yankee of Gloucester, according to advices received today by his brother, Arthur J. Johnson.

The area to be searched includes some 60 islands of the Gilbert and Ellice groups, many of them little more than coral reefs. The fliers have not been reported since July, 1937, while they were on a flight around the world. Plans went forward today for the inauguration May 14 of Attorney Sam Houston Jones, 42, as Louisiana's 49th governor. Voters formally elected Jones yesterday and defeated four constitutional amendments sponsored by outgoing Governor Earl K. Long, brother of the late Huey P. Long. Jones won the nomination in the Democratic primary in February, shattering the 12-year-old political dynasty established by Huey. Jones was opposed by W. W. Tuttle, the first Republican candidate for governor in many years, but Tuttle got only a handful of votes.

THE Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN

The financial campaign of the local Young Men's Christian Association with its goal set at $25,000 is now underway and leaders in this drive are greatly encouraged with the response so far and feel confident that their efforts will result in renewed and greater success.

The Y. M. C. A. is a useful organization in this community. It helps young men to develop physically and mentally, it strengthens their belief in themselves and it strengthens their integrity of character.

The Y. M. C. A. is partly self-supporting and partly maintained by private funds and the local association finds it absolutely necessary to bend every effort toward the successful solicitation of its objective. In order to carry on its essential activities and to balance its budget, it appeals to the public for this amount.

Those who know the work of the local Y. M. C. A. will welcome the opportunity of contributing and those who seek information about its activities will learn that whatever they contribute will be put to a worthwhile community service.

Continuation of the work of this social force in our community is depended upon the success of the campaign. It is up to the community to see that the work of this organization does go forward.

Support the Y. M. C. A. financial campaign and add appreciably to the development of better citizens in Kingston.

SEA POWER

It would be easy to get a wrong slant on the sea warfare that played so big a part in the European war last week. In estimating battle results, it is not enough to count ships and tonnage lost. It is a matter of proportion.

The German navy entered this contest greatly handicapped. It had nowhere near so many warships of any class, or so much gun-power, as the British fleet. Expert observers estimated total British superiority at not less than six to one.

Suppose, then, that Britain and Germany suffered about equal losses in their second Battle of Jutland last week. It may be a fair estimate, although the British make larger claims.

It would mean, in practical results, that if Germany lost one-third of her naval power, then Britain lost only one-eighth of her power. So the new ratio would be Britain seventeen and Germany two.

Another such "victory" as the Germans claim, and they certainly will be undone. A superior fleet, in equal exchanges, can soon whittle an inferior fleet down to a point where it cannot take the sea any longer. That was the case in the last war, when the German fleet, though claiming victory, went into seclusion for the rest of the war.

In the present war, Hitler may have to rely, from now on, mainly on war planes.

JAPAN'S NEW HOPE

The Japanese, who like to fish in troubled waters, think they will benefit by the new embroilment in Europe. Hope dawns eternal in the Tokyo breast that the Japanese may still recoup the enormous losses they have suffered in the "Chinese incident." They can fight better against a weakened enemy, they think, when Europe's back is turned. So they assure Britain and France of "friendly Japanese neutrality" toward the European conflict, and prepare to kill a few thousand more Chinese.

Tokyo statesmen have so consistently guessed wrong in the past that maybe they're just whistling now to keep up their courage.

Chinese opposition to the invaders seems stronger than ever. The Japanese people are tired of the war and its hardships. And Japanese statesmen don't know how much longer they can get scrap iron, copper and other war essentials from the United States. Probably not very long.

LOOKING NORTH AND SOUTH

The fiftieth anniversary of the Pan-American Union, along with the European breakdown, has naturally got people to thinking more about the solidarity of this

Western Hemisphere, and incidentally about hemispheric transportation. All this neighbor business is rather idle talk unless the neighbors can get around and see each other.

Water routes are doing very well in this respect, but land routes lag. Thousands of miles of highway have been built, but thousands more are needed to bind the North and South American continents into a well-knit system of transportation, trade and friendly association such as we have already with our northern neighbor, Canada.

In this latter region there is another big project afoot now which deserves general support, and could be accomplished rather quickly. It is the proposed highway up the Pacific Coast from Puget Sound through the Canadian coastal strip to Alaska. The Canadian government now seems favorable to that project. It would be fine for the development of Alaska and would help British Columbia and the Yukon Region.

NEW BIGNESS IN U. S. A.

The American population is increasing in stature. Colleges and universities which have kept records on these things find that students increase in height about an inch per generation. We are not yet a nation of giants, but we are taller, broader and heavier than our grandparents and great-grandparents.

Automobile makers have already taken note of this development and have been building cars that are comfortable for tall people. Now comes word that clothing manufacturers may have to rearrange their size-distribution tables, that theatres must arrange chairs to make room for knees and longer legs, that standard size beds will be longer and that architecture may have to plan homes and working places for bigger people.

All these changes will use more material. Perhaps they will maintain a balanced consumption of the raw materials going into manufactured goods which might otherwise be upset by a population dwindling in numbers.

DEATH RATE IN ERYSIPELAS

Erysipelas is one of the skin diseases which physicians watch very carefully. While the great majority of cases recover there was always the knowledge that as many as one in every seven cases might die due to the severe poisoning or destruction of the blood cells.

"Erysipelas is a rash-like redness of the skin which, when it occurs on the face, starts at the bridge of the nose and spreads to both sides of the face, forming the shape of a butterfly. There are chills, rise in temperature together with pain, swelling, itching and burning of the skin affected. Recovery generally occurs in that type of disease that does not follow a deep injury such as a surgical wound, and also when the tissues underlying the skin are not involved by the rash."

Treatment of erysipelas until recently has been the protection of the parts adjoining the rash and the use of X-rays. By these methods of treatment, the death rate was nearly 18 per cent.

It is gratifying to learn that the drug that is now performing almost miracles in pneumonia, gonorrhea, infected wounds and other dangerous conditions has been found to be equally successful in the treatment of erysipelas. This drug is sulphanilamide.

Drs. Archibald L. Hoyne, A. Alvin Wolfe, and Leona Prim, R.N., Chicago, report the results obtained in a series of 998 cases in the Journal of the American Medical Association. They state that the sulphanilamide is the most effective agent yet discovered for the treatment of the contagious skin disease known as erysipelas, it being responsible for a decrease of 87.8 per cent in the death rate of the above series of cases. The death rate dropped from 17.3 per cent (1 in every 6 or 7 cases) in 1934 to 2.1 per cent (1 in every 50 cases) in 1938.

Sulphanilamide was effective in every age group and every type of erysipelas as these cases included patients from infancy to old age.

As a timely warning as to the simple manner in which erysipelas may start, it is stated that one of the most frequent places of infection is the nose, due to breaking through the mucous membrane of the nostril by the fingernail. Erysipelas may result also by picking the ear with a toothpick match or finger nail.

The two most dreaded social diseases are gonorrhea and syphilis. Send today for Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled "Scourge" (No. 107) which deals with these two diseases. Know the truth and save endless worry. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

FINAL CONVULSION?

Early Diagnosis Drive Underway

A deliberate and organized search for tuberculosis with the X-ray among apparently healthy persons must be made if the disease is ever to be controlled, according to Dr. Kendall Emerson, managing director of the National Tuberculosis Association, which with its state, county and city affiliated associations opened the 13th annual early diagnosis campaign throughout the country on April 1. The campaign will continue until April 30.

Tuberculosis associations carry on a year-round educational campaign, financed by the Christmas Seal Sale funds, but during April a concentrated drive is launched to make known the characteristics of tuberculosis and the correct methods of diagnosis, prevention and treatment.

The correct control methods are fully presented during the campaign, and the associations urge their immediate adoption by individuals and groups, such as students, industrial and office workers, as the beginning of a universal recognition and acceptance of the right way to eradicate tuberculosis from this country.

"In lieu of other specific measures against tuberculosis," said Dr. Emerson, "education is our vaccine, our immunizing agent, our chief prophylactic procedure."

Tuberculosis killed approximately 70,000 persons last year. The disease is still the leading cause of death among persons between the ages of 15 and 45. While the disease has been forced from the first place to the seventh as the cause of death for the population as a whole, it still kills at the rate of one person every eight minutes.

"Our fight is far from being won," said Dr. Emerson. "The characteristics of the disease form the greatest obstacles in our progress. Tuberculosis, an insidious disease, can be well into an advanced stage before the victim knows he has it. Hence, we cannot afford to wait for symptoms to appear, and fortunately, we do not have to wait."

"The disease can be detected early, before any symptoms appear. The standard diagnostic procedure is simple. The tuberculin test, followed by a chest X-ray for the positive reactors to the test will find tuberculosis even in its earliest stage."

"There are two chief reasons why we must find tuberculosis in its early stages. First, early tuberculosis, in most cases, may be arrested. But advanced tuberculosis requires a long and costly period of treatment to insure recovery. Second, tuberculosis is infectious. Every person having the disease has caught it from someone else. Therefore, the sooner the disease is discovered and the patient is hospitalized, or takes full precautions to prevent the infection of others, the less chance there is for the germs to spread."

Dr. Emerson emphasized that since "healthy looks" can hide tuberculosis, no physical examination is complete without the tuberculin test, followed by the chest X-ray for the positive reactors.

The Ulster County Tuberculin testing program of 1940 is now under way. Dr. Mildred Nicholas of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, assisted by the school nurses and the county Tuberculosis Committee nurse is giving the test.

The work in the Saugerties High School is already completed. The Kingston High School and the Myron J. Michael School students were given the test the week of March 18th. The freshmen students of the High Schools of New Paltz, Wallkill, Kerhonkson and Ellenville are being tested this week. The program will be carried on in the Highland and Marlborough High Schools during the first part of May.

All positive reactors to the tuberculin test are fluoroscoped at the Out-Patient Department of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital and a report of any significant findings is mailed to the family physician.

Thomas Sheraton's Life

Thomas Sheraton has been called the master of cabinetmaking and inlay. He used very little carving and what he did was very dainty and strictly conventional. He followed straight classic lines, his best work being severe and simple. On some of his furniture he did not use a single molding but depended entirely upon inlay for ornamentation. He was the first designer to use satinwood to any extent and was famous for his veneered work.

The majority of his chair backs were rectangular in form with slightly curved and broken top rails. He used a variety of straight legs, square, turned, tapered and fluted, but never the cabriole leg. He favored all-over stuffed seats except where cane was used, and seldom used under-drawing. Convex corners were almost exclusively used on sideboards and side-tables. He was the first to design a kidney-shaped table.

Stamps In The News

(By The (A) Feature Service)

Sweden enters the stamp news with two issues. One is a re-engraving of a stamp bearing a portrait of King Gustav V in costume. The new stamp has a light-colored background. At the age of 20, he published his first characteristically work, a satirical poem called "The Moon." In 1765, he began composition of a series of dithyrambic odes based on the doings of a figure well known in the saloons of Sweden. Bellman composed his odes for singing with characteristic Swedish folk melodies. Many of the odes are in praise of love and wine.

Bellman's jovial verses were, for the most part, unprinted until after his death in 1795. A colossal bronze bust of him stands in the public gardens of Stockholm.

The airmail stamps are of the same design except that they bear the words "servicio aereo." The 30 cent is done in brown and the 80 cent in orange-red.

Charity Stamp

The other will be an issue intended to aid the many charities of Belgium's dowager Queen Elizabeth. It will bear the picture of the young Princess of Liege, her grandson.

Elizabeth is the widow of Albert I who ascended to the Belgian throne in December, 1909, and died in February, 1934. She was a princess of Bavaria until their wedding on October 2, 1900. With Albert, she ruled through the World War.

People of Nation Would Be Surprised if Reports on S. E. C. About Senator George Resulted in Measures

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1940)

Washington, April 17—Punitive government, government that uses its accusing and prosecuting powers to carry out political reprisals or to besmirch political opponents is so universally out of harmony with the American concept of fair play that it would be a great surprise to the people of the nation if the first reports that the securities and exchange commissions had attempted to smear Senator George of Georgia, Democrat, were confirmed.

The S. E. C. has been given broad powers by Congress over the public utility business—so broad in fact that there is scarcely any transaction which this $12,000,000 industry can consummate without subjecting itself to the scrutiny of the commission at any time.

Congress—and not the S. E. C.—brought about this condition and Congress alone can remedy it. That's one reason why a comprehensive investigation of the way the securities and exchange commission uses its powers has lately been urged on Capitol Hill. It is not novel. Many governmental commissions are now exercising arbitrary powers in similar fashion as a natural result of the young "brain trusters' idea of brooking no opposition, or court review or appeal from their decisions.

About a fortnight ago, Wendell Willkie, president of the holding company which owns the Georgia company that is now being investigated by the S. E. C., told a reporter in Boston that an S. E. C. official had threatened to "get him if it's the last thing we do." The report was ridiculed by President Roosevelt at a press conference and Mr. Willkie replied somewhat tartly that it was easy to laugh off things when there was no other answer.

Today it becomes clear that what Mr. Willkie suspected was the inquiry started by the S. E. C. into the alleged political contributions by the Georgia Power Company to the 1938 campaign of Senator George, who, it will be recalled, was to be the victim of the administration's purge policy.

Freston Arkwright, president of the company, denies that anyone in the corporation made any contributions and says the investigators have been in his office three times since 1938 on the same charge without finding evidence of wrongdoing. He calls it a political plot and a refusal of the polls to take their medicine as good sports.

What is more important, however, is that the administration here has never enforced the federal corrupt practices act against those who plainly violated it in the 1936 campaign by selling autographed campaign books to corporations at prices far above the intrinsic value of the books themselves. Likewise, the department of justice has recently scheduled other law violations by officials of the government who went so far as to confess publicly that they had disregarded federal statutes.

Under such circumstances, it is unfortunate to find impressions growing that political government and punitive government have become synonymous. Violations of federal statutes should, of course, be prosecuted vigorously at all times against any who are guilty, but to apply the law against political opponents of the administration while ignoring those without in its own ranks who have violated similar laws can only breed bitter feeling and widespread resentment at a time when national unity is so vital.

The S. E. C. is an important agency of the government. It has a whole lot of job looking after the sale of securities, the issuance of new capital issues and the application of the "death sentence" under the holding company law. How it can find time to busy itself with petty politics is a mystery unless there are influences at work inside the S. E. C. which are more interested in political punishments than in public service. It would be surprising if any of the members of the S. E. C. were themselves guilty of setting up a sort of financial "gestapo" in America because they are all high-minded men and, while sensitive to criticism, certainly do not appear to be ready to cast to the winds the traditional spirit of fair play which has always been characteristic of governmental bodies. Have political leaders of influence on the administration's side of Georgia's 1938 battle been able to persuade some of the minor bureau chiefs of the S. E. C. to drag the Georgia Power Company into the public prints in the hope of some local advantage?

It is significant that Chairman Jerome Frank, with characteristic fairness, has permitted himself to be quoted as saying that the Georgia investigation in no way involves Wendell Willkie. But how can inquiries like this be carried on? Who starts them? And are the vast investigative powers of the S. E. C. to be used to terrorize and intimidate?

Congress is just this week taking up the problem of arbitrary power by so-called independent commissions. An inquiry into the whole subject of equal and fair enforcement of the laws irrespective of political party becomes more logical now than ever before. (Reproduction rights reserved.)

Laminated Building Arch

Although European builders for the last 30 or 40 years have made use of the glued laminated wooden arch for supporting the roofs of large buildings, this device is only beginning to be made use of in this country. The glued, laminated arch is constructed by bending a one-inch board into a curve and then bending and gluing other similar boards to it, lengthwise and one by one, by means of pressure applied with clamps. These built-up wooden arches are being used in spans of 100 feet or more. The arches are capable of being built up to larger cross sections and greater lengths than usually are employed in wood construction and make possible the utilization of material that is too small to be structurally useful otherwise. Even such structures as vehicular bridges have been constructed with this type of arch for support.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)
Blitzkrieg—American Style
Memphis, Tenn.—Playing war cost a couple of lads a fine of $25 each.
As a city sprinkler lumbered past a group of "warriors," one shouted, "there goes a German tank."
They let loose a volley of rocks, pelting the truck so vigorously that the driver deserted the cab and called police.

Super-Salesmanship
Dunn, N. C.—Police discovered a boy was buying hose from a store and reselling it at a profit, advising customers that his goods were "hot."

He explained: "The best way to sell something down here is to act like you're scared the law will get you."

Shock
Spokane, Wash.—A Spokane woman purchased a "blind" crate for $3 at an auction sale, had it carted home and opened it on the front lawn.
Inside were three skeletons.
"She was considerably disturbed," reported Police Sergeant Lee Markwood. Detectives theorized the skeletons—of two adults and a child—came from a private museum operated here before the World War.

Surprise
Clinton, Okla.—A young woman census enumerator reported to Cecil Baker, the district supervisor, that two negroes had refused to give their names.
"Did they have any explicit reason?" asked Baker.
"Nothing explicit. But when I entered the room they were on their knees in the middle of the floor, shooting dice."

Tear Jerker
Evanston, Ill.—The amateur play which three youths presented at a church performance was billed as a side-splitting affair—instead the audience walked out in tears.

It all came about when one of the actors, Robert Wall, fired a gun during the course of the play which he thought was loaded with blank cartridges. The "blanks" turned out to be tear gas shells.
Explained Robert: "I guess the cop I borrowed those shells from made a slight mistake."

C. E. Roller Party
The Ulster County Christian Endeavor Society will hold a roller skating party at Spring Lake Tuesday, April 23, starting at 8 p. m. All members of the society are urged to attend.

Owner, Proud of His Car, Risks His Life

New York, April 17 (AP)—Pride in his new car led George Kologi, a slight, undersized bank bookkeeper, to risk his life twice last night in a successful fight to save the vehicle from two men believed fleeing after a slaying.

Shortly after two men called Thomas Silvino, 22, bakery salesman, from a luncheon a few blocks away and shot him to death, two armed men climbed into Kologi's car and told him to drive them away.

When he refused, they dragged him from the car, beat him with their gun butts and drove off. Kologi, still dazed, ran after them and leaped on the rear bumper.

A few blocks farther on the car picked up two more men. They saw Kologi and all four swarmed over him, beating and kicking him as he fought back.

Although two bullets were fired at him, Kologi managed to run around to the left of the car, grab its ignition key and escape. The four men then hurriedly commandeered a car across the street, forcing out the owner at gun point, and fled.

Kologi—his battered face and head covered with lumps—couldn't understand why police were puzzled at the scrap he had put up.

"Why, it was a new car!" he explained.

LITTLE SPITFIRE

By Jean Randall

YESTERDAY: Mrs. Arnold, who has an exaggerated idea of her responsibility toward her thirty-year-old ward Dorothy, asks Brenda to give up seeing Salty. Amused, Brenda refuses, but promises to keep away from Dorothy.

Chapter 12 A Little Adjusting

"WHY can't I ask Dorothy to my room?" Brenda asked Adelaide, after Mrs. Arnold had left. Mrs. Rostetter bridled gently. "Dorothy, my dear child, is a very stupid person; one can hardly call her a girl. I doubt if she reads a single book in a year. She glances at the headlines of newspapers—if they have to do with murders. Mrs. Arnold's protectiveness toward her is almost a phobia. I think the matron who put Dorothy in her care in the first place was largely responsible for it. She kept impressing on the poor woman that the girl would receive her impressions from the person with whom she made her home. It's ridiculous, really—the way she spreads her skirts in front of Dorothy. Eric and Isabel make all sorts of fun of her; but Mac thinks it's sort of pathetic. But then Mac—"

Brenda rose abruptly. "I must get to work! And by the way, Adelaide, I've asked Hugh Salty to come here this afternoon. I hope you don't mind?"

Adelaide smiled demurely. "This is a boarding house, my dear. Who your guests and callers are is certainly none of my business."

So Hugh came that afternoon, his eyes wary as a wild animal's but his mouth sensitive and almost tremulously smiling.

"You're sure this won't injure your social standing in The Street?" he inquired.

"How absurd!" Brenda exclaimed. "I'm proud to have the great Mr. Salty calling. Let me tell you! When my friends at home know—"

He looked alarmed. "You haven't written them where I am? Oh, Brenda, I hope you haven't!"

"Is it a secret?" In her turn she was disturbed. "Because I'm afraid I have told one or two. I'm so proud of knowing you, you see. Hugh, why do you hide?"

"There are reasons," she seemed suddenly as vague as Adelaide herself. "Never mind, dear child. I'm flattered that you are proud. It's pretty swell—having a nice girl like you willing to know me."

The whole situation puzzled Brenda. What if his wife had gone home and had not come back? Did that affect the man himself, or his work? Probably, Brenda mused. Mrs. Salty was cat, and Hugh was better off without her anyway. He seemed a lonely soul, poor Hugh!

"Who do you think you are?" Isabel inquired pleasantly that evening. "Mrs. Omnipotence? For I tell you, Brenda, not even a Burnham can carry on with Hugh as you're doing and not get herself talked about."

"Carry on?" Brenda ruffled indignantly. "I received a famous artist in the parlor of my boardinghouse—in the afternoon. If that's carrying on, I wonder what they'd think of some of the things that happen in the Village!"

"Ah, but they wouldn't let them happen here, you see! This street has been—well, pure and undefiled in its morals since your grandfather's time; perhaps before. It's not for a young girl like you, my sweet, to come along and corrupt it."

"If it's never corrupted any more than I shall corrupt it, it's most fortunate. Yes, Grenadine, what is it?"

"Mist' Mac say would you come down to the parlor a minute. He'd like to speak to you private-like."

"Keep Out!" Brenda cocked a mocking eye at her caller. "Now there, Isabel, is food for gossip, if you like! A young eligible man craves private speech with me—and after nightfall! Hadn't you better call Miss Ormond and Mrs. Arnold and tell them about it?"

In the parlor Mac said gravely: "I've tried all evening to get a word in with you but I've had no luck so I sent Grenadine to ask you to come down. I hope you didn't mind?"

"What is it?" she demanded briefly.

"I simply wanted to warn you to keep out of the Abernathy-Barrow affair," he said. "There are ramifications to it which you don't know; which you needn't know. Will you take my word that it's wisest to let the twins attend to their own affairs?"

The icy wrath which he had stirred in her twice before rose again.

"No," she answered deliberately. "I won't. Won't take your word, and won't keep out of your affair. It seems to me to need a little adjusting. And I'd have you know," she continued defiantly, "that I've been asked to adjust it!"

"By whom?"
"By—Ned Barrow."
"I was afraid so," he sighed. "My dear girl, I wish you'd believe that I really want to be a friend of yours—not an enemy. And as a friend I tell you that mixing up with Barrow and Alaine will bring down a lot of trouble on your head. I know. I've lived here several years and I understand the situation as you can't hope to do—not for months, anyway. Barrow, heaven be praised, has gone to California for two weeks. Will you give me your word to do nothing about him and Alaine—most especially about Alaine—until he comes back?"

"My dear Mac," she began affably, "your solicitude is most gratifying—most gratifying indeed. But somehow I can't see how my helping a pair of lovesick youngsters out of a coil of trouble they've wound themselves up into is going to harm me in the least. Likewise," she cocked a mocking eye in his direction—flattered as I am at your effort to look after me, I'm at a loss to understand why—"

"Yes, you said that before. I wonder about it myself—sometimes. Let's put it that I hate to see either fools or angels rushing in where they shouldn't tread."

"I being—?"
"Take your choice," he said, and strode away. "My last word is: you'll regret it deeply if you don't keep out of that mess!"

"Very Unjust!"
Brenda had progressed from the first square to the second in her book. She was supremely dissatisfied with the result but, as she reminded herself almost tearfully, she couldn't stay or one chapter forever.

Viciously she had scratched out the word "sparkling" from the cardboard plan. It was as much as she could do to get Margaret and Brian to open their mouths to each other, much less engage in sparkling dialogue. Then, stiff, formal sentences disgusted the young author beyond measure, but try as she would, nothing better came.

"And this makes three days to one chapter at that!" she thought. "At this rate I'll be forever writing the infernal book!"

She worked doggedly all morning and until nearly four in the afternoon when she decided that a brisk walk would clear her mind. It was a heavenly day with a blue haze on the hills beyond the town.

"I wish I had a car," she thought wistfully. "I'd like to drive out there and see the river. Oh! She bumped into a young man who came dashing up the steps just as she went down."

"I beg your pardon!" His tone was distinctly sulky. "I hope I haven't hurt—Oh, it's you, Miss Burnham!"

"Brenda," she corrected with a smile. "Call me Brenda, Ab!"

"You recognize me then?"
"Of course. You and Alaine make a rather impressive pair, you know. Did you want to see Adelaide? I'm afraid she's out just now."

He glowered at her. "It's you I want to see!"

"It?" She glanced again at his wrathful young face and took a sudden decision. "That's your car at the curb, isn't it? Well, then suppose you take me for a little drive while we talk. I was just wishing I could get out to those hills."

He hesitated. Plainly the idea of driving about with a girl with whom he had come to quarrel was a trifle disconcerting to him.

"You might as well," she assured him.

"All right!" He closed the door upon her, careful even in his annoyance to see that her skirts were protected, and went around to his own seat. "Look here, Miss Burnham, I—"

"Brenda," she began. "Well, Brenda, then. But don't think that I intend being friends with you, because I don't! I know what you've been up to with Alaine. I know you're encouraging her to marry Ned Barrow and I want to tell you—"

"Encourage her? My dear boy, wasn't she packing to elope with him when I arrived on the scene? Didn't I talk her into postponing it, merely to give her time to make up her quarrel with you? I think," Brenda concluded plaintively, "you're very unjust!"

"A lot I care what you think," he told her with boyish rudeness. "If that was all that happened, it would be O. K. But it wasn't all. You sent Barrow off to California and got Alaine all stirred up over his going. . . I tell you, she never took him seriously before, no matter how often she threatened to marry him. But now—now! You knew the one and identical thing to keep her thoughts on him, make her wonder why he hasn't called or written."

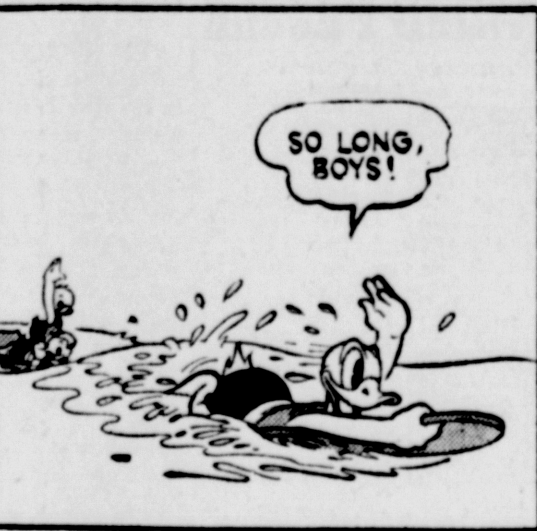

"You understand a lot for a child of your age," she said coldly. "Child! I'm nearly twenty-one! And it doesn't take either age or wisdom to see through this little maneuver of yours."

Life's Ebb and Low

If there had been no suffering, no loneliness, no pain, I should have missed the wonder of rebirth to health again.

If there had been no parting with its waiting and its tears, There would have been no rapture of reunion after years.

And had there been no barren days, devoid of song and wing, I could not sense the miracle of hillside flushed with spring.

A minister was invited to dinner. During the meal he was astonished to hear the little daughter of the house state that a person must be brave these days to go to church.

Minister—Why do you say that? Little Girl—Oh, I heard Daddy telling Mother that last Sunday there was a big gun in the pulpit, and the choir murdered the anthem, and the organist drowned the choir.

It seems to us, when eating in a cafe, every time we get a mouthful of food, someone walks up and says "hello." And all we can do is muster up a silly grin—and sometimes be accused of being high-hat for not speaking out.

Two bankers were riding down the road. Side by side they sat, both looking worried and both remaining silent. Finally, one heaved a deep sigh. The other studied him for a moment and then said: "You're telling me!"

But it would be hard to let out these trousers: The recruits were being given clothes and kit at the barracks. They were then paraded on the square for the inspection by the Sergeant.

Sergeant—Any complaints? Recruit—Yes. Sergeant—What is it? Recruit—Its my trousers.

Sergeant—What's the matter with them? I can't see anything wrong with them.

Recruit—Perhaps you can't see anything wrong with them, but I can feel something wrong—they're chafing me under my arms.

English Exam Question—Give three collective nouns. Student's Answer — Flagger, wastebasket and vacuum cleaner.

The news has come out of Germany of attempts to get along on substitute materials and a report that the Nazis are manufacturing cloth out of wood drew the special interest of one who is cutting his clothes out of the usual materials for Americans.

A tailor has distributed a card of greetings to his friends, setting out a bill for a suit of clothes as it might be drawn up in Germany, where the trousers made from popular, for every day wear, and from oak for Sunday best:

One suit, latest style, wood-cut model ..... $65.00 To planing the suit ..... 10.00 To sawing 14 pockets at 50 cents each ..... 7.00 To nailing on 42 buttons at 10 cents each ..... 4.20 To drilling and sandpapering 42 buttonholes at 10 cents each ..... 4.20 To gluing creases and cuffs ..... 2.00 To veneering 2 lapels and adjusting hinges ..... 2.00 To carving 6 belt loops ..... 2.25 To stopping knothole in right sleeve ..... .50 To lining—3 sq. yds. plywood ..... 7.50

A great deal of laughter was created in a magistrate's office one day by an excitable German, a prisoner, charged with some minor breach of ordinance:

Judge—Are you a single man? German (indignantly) — Now you look out, don't you try to make a joke wid me joust because I am Dutch and green. Do I look like I am a double man? Huh? I am no fool, even if I am not long in dis country!

Poultrymen are interested in determining early the sex of baby chicks so they can discard the cockerels and spend their time and money on the pullets. Methods by which this is done are known as "sexing" the chicks. Research at Cornell now shows that breeds can be developed in a few years which can be easily and rapidly sexed at hatching. The sex is revealed by the color of down at the time of hatching.

Newburgh to Have 75th Anniversary

A grand street parade Monday afternoon, beginning at 2:30, will climax the observance of the 75th anniversary of the establishment of Newburgh as an incorporated city. Newburgh received her corporate charter April 22, 1865.

The city's diamond jubilee program will open with a union service in the Newburgh Academy auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday evening in which Catholic, Jewish and Protestant clergy will participate.

Mayors of Middletown and Poughkeepsie will extend birthday greetings to Newburgh's Mayor Herbert A. Warden via radio at 11:15 a. m. Monday. At 12:15 o'clock noon in the Palatine Hotel a community luncheon will take place. Thirteen guests of honor will be 75-year-old natives, who were born in Newburgh in the year in which the city received its charter. Forsyth Wickes, grandson of R. A. Forsyth, who was one of the 1864 committee instigating action for the city charter, will be the principal speaker.

The parade at 2:30 p. m. will comprise military, civic and commercial divisions. A concert by the augmented Newburgh Symphony of 75 pieces and a pageant depicting events leading to the incorporation of Newburgh city 75 years ago followed by dancing to old fashioned and modern music will close the celebration Monday night.

In a period of five years, 34 plantations of hardwood forest trees have been established in 33 counties of New York state by the forestry department at Cornell.

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9357

You'll stagger that stag line in this feminine "Southern Belle" dance frock—one of the versions of Pattern 9357. Marian Martin has designed its panelled lines to accent young curves. The skirt flares and rises to a slim high point at the front waist. The bodice, with its prettily shaped neckline, is softened by gathers at either side of the panel, and the sleeves billow out in dainty puffs. The good-looking daytime version of this style is very striking with the sides of its bodice and the center skirt cut on the bias particularly when made of check or stripe fabric. For this you'll use the round high neckline.

Pattern 9357 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13, long length dress, requires 4½ yards 39 inch fabric.

Veteran Teachers Retire in June

Miss Gertrude Burhans of Pine street, and Miss Isabel Thompson of Orchard street, veteran teachers in School No. 2, are the only two teachers in the faculties of the public schools who come under the provisions of the new ruling of the education board, requiring their retirement from active service when they reach the age of 70 years.

Both teachers will retire in June at the close of the present school year.

Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw in reply to questions this morning stated that Miss Burhans and Miss Thompson were the only teachers who would be affected by the new ruling.

Both have been members of the teaching staff at School No. 2 for many years.

Taxpayers Organization To Be Known as 'League'

A representative of the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., which has been preparing the way for the organization of a new county taxpayers unit, said last night that probably the new association here would adopt the name, "The Ulster County Taxpayers' League," instead of Council, as had at first been suggested. The change would be in order to avoid confusion with the organization of a number of Ulster county town taxpayers' associations going under the name of the Ulster County Taxpayers' Council.

A meeting of representatives of towns in the county and the city of Kingston will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 o'clock tonight, for organization purposes. Officers will be named and committees appointed at the meeting tonight. A board of nine directors will direct the affairs of the league.

Chief Declares Drunken Driver Public Menace

"An intoxicated person behind the wheel of an automobile is a public menace," declared Chief of Police Charles Phinney during the course of an address before the Men's Club of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening. The chief was the guest speaker of the evening and was introduced by Police Commissioner Samuel H. Peyer.

Chief Phinney took as his topic "Intoxicated Drivers" and in plain, vivid language he outlined the procedure taken by the police department when a person was arrested for that offense. He told how the driver of the car was not only examined by a physician but laboratory tests were made to determine if the driver was intoxicated at the time of his arrest.

The chief said only about 70 per cent of the drunken driving cases in Kingston resulted in convictions, and he explained why. He said that where a drunken driver retained an attorney to defend him the case was tried before a jury at night in police court.

At these trials the attorney for the defendant, as a rule did not pay much attention to the evidence, but used every effort to make the police and other witnesses appear foolish in the eyes of the jury. The lawyer, he said, would also draw in the sympathy of the jury that if the defendant was convicted he would lose his license to drive, and thus would deprive his family of their bread and butter.

Chief Phinney urged that citizens of the city appeal to their legislative representatives to introduce legislation in Albany next year transferring the trial of drunken driving cases to courts of record, such as the county court or Supreme Court. In the police court or in a court of special sessions the hands of the trial judge were tied, and he was not allowed to charge the jury on the facts and evidence.

In a court of record, said the police chief, the attorney for the defendant would not be permitted to drag in the sympathy gag, but would be confined to the evidence in the case.

The chief also urged his hearers that if they were called to serve as jurors in a drunken driver case that they do not allow their sympathy to sway their verdict but to determine the case solely on the evidence produced.

If this were done it would mean more convictions on this serious charge. The chief emphasized the fact that Judge Matthew V. Cahill was using every effort in his power to cut down the number of drunken driving cases and in the past few days had adopted a new method here of holding the defendant's driving license until the case was disposed of.

This, said the chief, would have a great tendency to prevent cases from being adjourned from time to time, as the drivers, deprived of their license to operate a car would wish the case disposed of quickly. At the present time nine cases were pending on drunken driving charges.

At the close of the chief's address he answered a number of questions from his audience. He said that the one-way traffic regulations now in force on Wall and Fair streets were working satisfactorily as well as on East Strand.

At the close of the question period refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the club will be held in May.

The total number of sheep and lambs on the farms of the United States during 1939 was 53,762,000. Texas led all the other states, with a total of 9,646,000.

MISINTERPRETED RULE ABOUT BREAD AND BUTTER PLATES UPSETS HUSBAND

Directions for Formal Occasions Should Not Be Applied to Mere "Company" Dinners—Other Inquiries

Directions for formal situations, giving on occasion in this column as well as those given in unabridged detail in my book, are sometimes taken so literally as to cause real hardship to guests and members of the family. Usually the one who writes me about such a situation is the husband. A typically irate complainer writes me as follows:

"As my wife understands them, the directions in your book say that bread and butter plates are correct only at luncheons and suppers and at family dinners. We have had several company dinners lately and consequently my wife has left off the bread and butter plates. I think it's ridiculous not to have a plate to put the roll on, and will you please tell me where you are intending that I put the butter? On a hot plate rim, the butter skids off the rim into the middle of the plate and under the fish or the meat or whatever it is that doesn't need any butter. Am I expected to dunk by roll into buttered sauce or buttered gravy? If this is your idea of a good table rule, I'm certainly against it."

The rule is not quite what you describe. If your wife is going to serve butter, then she should set the table with bread and butter plates. The rule against butter plates applies only to a formal dinner—meaning a dinner of ceremony and not just company for dinner. But why give formal dinners?

Receiving a Guest Speaker
Dear Mrs. Post: When a club is having a guest speaker who is coming from out of town and arriving several hours before the meeting, is it any one's duty to meet her and take care of her during this time? The club is paying for this lecture in case that makes some difference.

Answer: The question of payment has nothing to do with the courtesy that must be shown her. If she is arriving at a station, she should be met there by some one from the club and driven somewhere to spend the time between then and the lecture. Some one—not necessarily the same person of course—always remains with her throughout her stay.

A Question of Better Form
Dear Mrs. Post: Is "Rev. John Smith" just as good form as "The Rev. John Smith" when addressing an envelope to a clergyman? And if there is some doubt as to whether the clergyman is a D. D., should he be addressed as "The Rev. Dr. ...." and spoken to as Doctor... anyway?

Answer: "The Rev. John Smith" is better form but the Rev. John Smith is not incorrect. Since it could not be discourteous to give him a title by mistake whereas it would be discourteous not to give him one when he has, it would be better to err on the side of politeness and call him Doctor Smith when you speak to or of him. "The Rev." on the envelope is entirely polite without the Dr. or D. D.

Subtle Attack

Bucharest (AP)—Should Russians march into Bessarabia, Rumania plans to use brandy as well as bullets to repulse them. In the last war, when Russians were in Rumania as allies, Rumanians say they guzzled all the liquor they could get their hands on and that their drunkenness resulted in several defeats. As a strategic move, a reliable informant said, the general staff has moved big stocks of cheap brandy and vodka into the frontier region to make liquor easily available to the Russians if they enter.

Legion Show Plans Progress, Big Time When 40 &amp; 8 Arrives

JOHN MELVILLE

Press releases from Kingston Post, American Legion, indicate that the ex-servicemen's organization will play a big part in the Hudson Valley Apple Blossom Festival, helping to make it one of the most colorful events ever sponsored in Kingston.

Two of the latest announcements have to do with the big amateur show to be run in the municipal auditorium, and the "invasion" of the 40 and 8, an arm of the Legion, a society made up of World War veterans who served overseas.

Commander John Melville, of the Third District of the "40 and 8" and Charles Parker, commander of the Third N. Y. State Legion District, have already issued their "mobilization orders."

The highlights will be a grand parade in which the participating drum corps will be eligible to compete for interesting prizes. Andrew J. Murphy, has been appointed as chairman of the drum corps competition. All entries are to be addressed to him at the Legion Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly street.

Eugene B. Carey is chairman of the ticket committee for the Legion amateur show to be held at the Municipal Auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 2, when Ulster County's Apple Blossom Queen will be selected. This show is under arrangements of Kingston Post.

Casey and Elk Shufflers Tie

In the annual series between the shuffle board players of the Knights of Columbus and Elks, last night at the Caseys' clubhouse before a large gallery of fans, the teams broke even, each winning three games out of six.

Enthusiasm reached its highest pitch when Mickey Ryan and Lou Sapp chalked up one for the Elks over Frank "Dutch" Brennan and Jim Dwyer and again when Jack Foye and Bill Rothery overcame the two Knight stars, Dr. John F. Larkin and Harry Matthews.

The next schedule of contests will be played at the Elks on Monday night, April 22, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Rumanians Take Long Nazi Lease

many's normal import requirements.

Rumania in addition, has taken other measures for defense. Her Black Sea and Danube ports were ready to go under navy rule today. General Paul Teodorescu, minister of navy and air, laid before parliament a bill giving the government immediate power to take "extraordinary military measures" in all ports and territorial waters.

Units of the Russian navy were reported gathered in unusual number at Odessa, Soviet Black Sea port. (The German radio was reported to have broadcast a Moscow report today that the Russian Black Sea fleet had started maneuvers.)

Must Build Emergency Supply "Strategic" national defense factories were ordered to build up immediately a 15-day emergency supply of gasoline and fuel oil which may not be touched unless there is general mobilization.

The new ban on oil exports, which is temporary until huge new reserves are assured Rumania's defense forces and railways, was viewed by foreign oil experts as certain to slow down Germany's deliveries, which already are far behind schedule.

The restrictive measures were decided upon by the cabinet economic council Monday, less than 24 hours after the government had lifted a three-day prohibition on the loading of freight cars and barges for Germany.

German quarters persisted in a belief that Rumania had used the loading ban to force Germany to drop economic demands, including one for a decrease in the value of Rumanian lei of the German mark, which would permit Germany to buy more Rumanian goods with a given amount of German money, and another, for a reduction of recently-raised Rumanian freight rates.

Germany dropped these demands Sunday. Now, German quarters point out, Rumania, after getting Germany to drop the demands, has announced still further measures hampering the reich.

Stark Says Service Would Favor Any Move to Drop Arms

plied quickly, "I'd like to find him. We have to bear the burden of war."

This prompted Senator Tydings (D., Md.) to observe: "Admiral, I think we ought to have an amendment to this bill to put two congressmen on each of these ships."

The navy told congress today that the United States would have a billion-a-year bill to maintain the fleet and its air arm at the expanded strength now contemplated.

The annual upkeep estimate of about $1,157,647,100 was submitted to the Senate naval committee, which is studying the House-approved program for an 11 per cent increase in the fleet at a cost of about $655,000,000.

Heavier Bill Likely

An even heavier maintenance bill was likely if Congress follows the recommendations of Admiral Harold R. Stark for a 25 per cent expansion of the fleet. The chief of naval operations held the bigger boost necessary to restore the country's 5-to-3 treaty ratio over Japan.

The 11 per cent fleet increase authorizes 43 additional ships and 1,011 planes, but does not set aside funds. Building costs, the navy pointed out, would have to be absorbed over the next several years in addition to the expense of previously authorized construction and the maintenance outlay for the present fleet.

While the naval committee heard this testimony, other phases of the national defense problem drew Senate attention.

The war department's request for funds to start work on a $277,000,000 set of bomb-proof locks for the Panama Canal drew the fire of Senate economy advocates.

Nazis Mop Up South of Norway

occupation of Narvik by British and Norwegian forces, Swedish advances indicated that the Germans still were holding certain strategic points in and around the town, which was said to be a mass of smoking ruins.

Heavy fighting was observed yesterday at Riksgrensen, a way station on the Narvik-Kiruna railway, near the Swedish frontier.

At nearby Bjorgen, a force of 1,000 Germans was said to have overwhelmed about 250 Norwegians after five hours of fighting.

Additional British troops were reported to have been landed at Harstad, 35 miles north of Narvik, under the protection of five warships.

Score Crosses Border A score or more soldiers wounded in the fighting around Narvik, including both Germans and Norwegians, crossed the Swedish border and were taken to a hospital at Kiruna.

The Norwegians brought fresh tales of treachery on the part of their own officers. One soldier said that all the officers in his unit had deserted except one ensign and a captain. The ensign, he declared, had shot down a superior officer who ordered the unit to surrender.

In London, the Exchange Telegraph said that General Otto Ruge of the Norwegian army had broadcast a message to scattered Norwegian military units announcing the arrival of allied aid and appealing to his men to "keep going until that help is effective."

Sweden, continuing to prepare for any eventuality, placed all petroleum, fuel and oil supplies under government control.

All important Swedish ports on the south coast were declared barred territories, and Swedish and foreign ships were forbidden to enter or depart without special permission.

Special permits were required to gain admission to the port zones of all towns in the area affected by the order.

the country he warned farmers against guerrilla activity, but added that farmers may keep their rifles in their homes without risking arrest.

The bishop said he had heard many stories of kindness and chivalry by the German soldiers toward the Norwegians.

Exchange quotations still are suspended here but daily quotations are received from New York, Amsterdam, and Zurich. An arrangement for modified money and stock rates is pending.

Named Trustee

Rufus D. Kelder, elder of the Church of the Comforter, was elected trustee of the trust fund of the Classis of Ulster at the meeting of Classis held Tuesday at Ulster Park, to fill the unexpired term of Joel Brink, deceased. Mr. Kelder also becomes treasurer of the fund.

They contended that the army had failed to establish any need for the new locks.

At the same time the Senate heard that the war department intended to request $6,000,000 to start immediate work on an air base at Anchorage, Alaska, and a cold-weather aviation experiment station at Fairbanks, Alaska. The army originally asked $12,734,000 for this purpose, but the House struck it from the appropriation bill. The army now plans to ask the Senate to restore half the amount.

In New York, the navy set June 13 for the launching of the $65,000,000 U. S. S. North Carolina—the first dreadnaught to be commissioned in 19 years.

Firemen to Visit Home at Hudson

Sunday, June 2, was the date fixed by the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association meeting in Centerville Tuesday evening when the county firemen will pay the annual visit to the Firemen's Home in Hudson. John Heaney of this city was named chairman of a committee to arrange the details of the trip.

Nearly 300 volunteer firemen from all sections of Ulster county attended the meeting last evening when Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the Kingston fire department led an open discussion on the use of chemicals in fighting fires.

Seth Cole of Catskill submitted a report on legislation at Albany affecting volunteer firemen. Following the business meeting a fine program of entertainment was given and refreshments served.

The May meeting of the association will be in Kingston with Cordts Hose Company as host to the county firemen.

Special Service Begins Passover

Memories of freedom won after years of slavery in Egypt will bring hope to Jews throughout the world as they recite the seder service which will usher in the holiday of the Passover on the evening of April 22.

Passover, which commemorates the safe passage of the Jews over the Red Sea and their entrance into the Promised Land, is the oldest holiday in the Jewish calendar. Originating as a spring festival it developed a religious significance during the days of the Temple, and has retained it to this day.

Historically a seven-day festival, marking the sowing of the harvest, Passover is observed for eight days by Orthodox and Conservative Jews due to former uncertainty in calendar calculations. Reform Jews celebrate the holiday for seven days. Synagogue services are held on the first and seventh days of Passover which are observed as holidays. Orthodox and Conservative Jews have Synagogue services also on the second and eighth days.

The eating of unleavened bread, or Matzos, is connected with the festival. This is a symbol of the unleavened bread which the Jews ate while fleeing from Egypt. According to tradition there was no time to wait for the bread-dough to rise.

As one of the great pilgrim festivals, Passover was observed in the Temple in Jerusalem by people who came from all parts of Palestine to share in the holiday which marked the sowing of the crops. Since the fall of the Temple, Passover has become a home and Synagogue festival.

At the home service which is known as the Seder, and which is rich in symbolism, the story of the deliverance from slavery under the leadership of Moses, is read each year. The ritual, or Haggadah, from which the service is read has been copiously illustrated. An outstanding collection of Haggadahs is a part of the British Museum collection. Notice prepared by The Tract Commission of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, Merchants Bldg., Cincinnati, O.

Discuss Delaware Aqueduct Safety

New York, April 17 (Special)—State Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller was a principal speaker at the opening session yesterday of the Greater New York Safety Council, and told of the measures used to safeguard the lives of the 6,000 workers employed in the construction of the Delaware Aqueduct, which will bring water to New York city from the Rondout and Neversink reservoirs.

More than 5,000 delegates are attending the sessions, which began yesterday at the Hotel Pennsylvania and the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Agencies Are to Compete

Albany, N. Y., April 17 (AP)—New York has invited advertising agencies to submit plans up to midnight, April 30, for the state's 1940-41 milk publicity campaign. Agriculture Commissioner Holton V. Noyes said a contract will be awarded the company which "offers" the most effective and judicious plan for expenditure of the ($300,000) appropriation provided in a new law extending the drive to July 1, 1941.

dangers that beset the workmen, said: "No more practical example of cooperation exists. There are 6,000 men at that job. They face hazards from explosives and from falling rock. They face explosive and poisonous gases. They face fog and mist, and they face the silica dust we know to be so deadly."

She declared that elaborate precautions were taken to combat these dangers. Further steps should be taken, however, she said. One of them that she urged was the augmenting of the present facilities by the establishment of a mine rescue station under the Federal Bureau of Mines at a point nearer than the present one which is at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Philadelphia Sphas Clean Up in American Cage League

Internationals Start Thursday

New York, April 17 (AP)—The 57th International League baseball season gets under way tomorrow with most of the club managers craning their necks in the general direction of the big leagues.

It's the same situation that always marks the early part of a minor league campaign and makes it virtually impossible to compare the strength of the teams until they've had time to settle down. All eight clubs are starting with high hopes, but most of these hopes depend upon players that still are expected from major league clubs to fill in the weak spots.

The real novelty this season is the fact that the International will play a 161 game season this year instead of the usual 154.

Artillery Holds Softball Practice

The artillerymen of Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery held a softball practice session last evening in the large drill shed at the armory. A large number of the soldiers turned out for this popular summer pastime and it looks as if the artillerymen may have a strong lineup for the coming season.

Two teams were chosen for last night's drill, the Reds with Sgt. Gordon Richards as captain and the Blues with Sgt. John Dittus acting pilot. The Blue team played a hard game defeating the Reds 18-7. Both teams scored homers. Lieut. Andrew Mitchell smacked one for the Blues and Jake Snyder brought a homer in for the Reds.

Batteries for last night's practice were: Nock and DeWitt for the Reds and Windram and Larkin for the Blues.

Thursday evening the soldiers will hold another practice session at the armory commencing at 8 o'clock. All players are urged to be present.

High Scoring Lags Amid 5-Man Teams

Detroit, April 17 (AP)—National known teams scheduled for late this week are expected to determine the number of 3,000 series that may be expected from the current American Bowling Congress championships. So far scoring in the five-man even has lagged behind that of previous years with only one figure above "three grand"—the 3047 by Chicago's Classic League Monarchs.

Friday night should tell the story with such teams as Chicago Pabsts, featuring national match champion Ned Day; Cleveland's Linsz Recreation All-Stars, winners of the elimination to meet St. Louis Hermann Undertakers for the national five-man match game crown; and Cleveland Rosenblums

Philadelphia Sphas won all the honors in the American Basketball League during the past season. The President's cup, awarded to the team finishing in first place in the regular playing season, together with the purse for the members of such team went to the Sphas. In the playoff, the Philadelphia team not only won the David F. Soden Trophy, emblematic of the World's Professional Basketball Championship, but they accomplished the unparalleled feat of winning eight straight games, defeating each of the other four contenders at home and abroad without a setback.

The Sphas justly earned the title as they played brilliant basketball from start to finish of the season, without any material setbacks, although confronted with stronger opposition than had been presented in the American League circuit during the previous ten years.

Reiser Makes It
In the selection of the All-Star League team made by the managers, McDermott of Baltimore and Rosenberg of Philadelphia received the highest number of votes, recording eight out of a possible ten. Pelkington of the Jewels with seven votes, ousted Goldman of Philadelphia at center, but because of the closeness of the vote, Goldman is alternated at one of the guard positions with Rubinstein of the Jewels, each receiving six votes. Reiser of Troy was selected as the other guard with seven votes.

In the All-Star team selected by the fans of the country, conducted by the radio station broadcasting the Sphas home games in Philadelphia, thousands of votes from 32 states, as far west as Arizona, picked five of the above named first team. The only change in the selection of the fans, as against the managers, was that Goldman was chosen by the fans in place of Pelkington.

On both the managers' teams, Philadelphia landed five players, Troy three players, Jewels two players and Baltimore one player.

Only two changes were recorded among the leaders yesterday, both by Steve Novok, Toledo, O., who hit 716 for fourth place in the singles and reached eighth in the all-events on 1926.

Grooms Shawangunk Links

Greenskeeper Frank Eck rakes first tee, under watchful eye of pet collie, "Mitzie," as Shawangunk Country Club golf course is groomed for 1940 season.

Ellenville, April 16—C. D. Raymond, president of the Shawangunk Country Club, said yesterday that the organization's picturesque nine-hole golf course would open "about May 1."

Located just outside Ellenville, the well-groomed layout covers 60 billowing acres and is said to be a sporting course which offers enough variety to please fair golfers and par-busters, alike.

The club was incorporated in 1927 and has a membership of about 60.

An attractive white clubhouse surmounts the course which is well known for its commanding view of the scenic Shawangunk mountain.

Besides Mr. Raymond, officers are: Frank H. Sprague, vice president; Harold Gillette, second vice president; Harold Rippert, secretary, and E. Gordon Jansen, treasurer.

A. Starr Phelps is chairman of the greens committee. Frank Eck, greenskeeper, reported yesterday that the course was in "good condition for this time of year."

Work on the greens and fairways in next 10 days is expected to bring the course in fine shape.

A spacious nine-cup practice is getting special attention and should be in excellent condition when play begins.

Officers are planning a membership drive soon.

Tonight at the city hall, at 7 o'clock sharp, Kingston's first permanent track club will be organized. Sponsored by the Department of Recreation, membership in this organization will be open to all people interested in taking part in track and field sports.

Novices as well as experienced runners are invited to join this organization, with the hope that a large squad of active trackmen will take advantage of the opportunity of participating in this sport.

Indications from all quarters point toward an even greater interest in this activity than was hoped for by the most ardent enthusiasts. Track and field men from the county, as well as local men are expected to turn out for tonight's meeting.

High school track men who will not be eligible for an active part in the club until after the regular interscholastic season has been concluded will be welcome at the organization meeting.

With the stadium track, one of the best in the east, fast shaping up, it is expected that regular workouts for the cindermen will soon be under way.

Feller Happy but Not About Curves
Chicago, April 17 (AP)—Robert William Andrew Feller stood there in the dressing room, strangely composed but happy, and said "My curve wasn't breaking the way I wanted it to."

He wasn't popping off and he wasn't being facetious. There is no false modesty in the makeup of this 21-year-old Iowa farm boy who yesterday entered baseball's hall of fame with a no-hit, no-run game, first ever recorded in the season's opener in modern major league history. He struck out eight batters and walked five. Another reached base on an error.

"I think I've been faster several times," he explained. "Of course that strong wind behind me helped make me faster. But I couldn't seem to throw a curve very well."

A matter of fact, hard-working country boy, that's Feller. He congratulated his Cleveland mates just as warmly as they praised him for the 1-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Rollie Hemley, Feller's catcher and closest friend on the squad, whose triple sent Jeff Heath home with the winning run, said he had seen the young righthander a lot faster but "he was never a better pitcher—he's got everything."

WRESTLING LAST NIGHT

Spring Weather Bolsters Spirit of Miller and Men

Stellar Pitching Features Opening Major Ball Games

By JUDSON BAILEY

Big league baseball's first bite was as luscious as spring's first strawberry and the flavor will linger for days.

The no-hit spectacle of young Bob Feller, the two-hit efforts of old Lefty Grove and the uniformly fine flinging in every one of yesterday's eight games lifted the 1940 inaugural to a high place among the sport's opening days.

For the first time in four years every one of the programmed games was run off as scheduled and 183,957 fans turned out. This was well below the record 249,010 of 1931 but better than any beginning since 1936 and an auspicious omen for the majors.

The world champion New York Yankees were beaten; the National League champion Cincinnati Reds won their first opening game since 1932. There were home runs and arguments with umpires and an extra-inning game and above all some of the best all-around, free-style, no-holds-barred pitching duels the majors ever gathered into a single day.

Feller Stands Out
Feller's marvelous exploit overshadowed all the others, of course. With him in control the Cleveland Indians scalped the Chicago White Sox 1-0. He struck out eight and was generally the one-man gang that he was expected to be on the basis of his spring training efforts.

Three times before the 21-year-old came within one hit of this goal without making it. But this time he made it and just about any great pitching performance that comes along now for the rest of the season will be an anti-climax.

It was the first no-hitter in the majors since Monte Pearson tamed the Tribe for the Yankees August 27, 1938.

Fans came so close to getting two no-hitters yesterday that a lot of them probably would still be shaking if they had known what was going on at the time.

For while Feller was working carefully toward the first no-hit opening game in modern major league annals, Lefty Grove was tying the Washington Senators into bow-knots and didn't allow them a single until the eighth inning. Finally a teammate's error unsettled the gallant 40-year-old southpaw sufficiently for him to allow two scratch safeties, but he preserved the 1-0 victory for the Boston Red Sox.

The show was absorbing enough to keep President Roosevelt and 31,000 other fans at Washington engrossed from start to finish.

The Athletics' 2-1 ten-inning victory over the Yankees was another pitching thriller with Charles (Red) Ruffing of the four-times world champions and Lovill (Chubby) Dean each giving six hits.

An error by Benny McCoy, Connie Mack's $45,000 prize free agent, enabled New York to score a run without a hit in the third inning, but Bob Johnson hit a homer in the fourth to tie the score. Then in the tenth the A's loaded the bases with one out and Dean, one of baseball's leading pinch hitters when he isn't pitching, brought home the winning run with a long fly.

The outstanding hurling display in the National League came in the Phillies' 3-1 triumph over the New York Giants. Walter Kirby Higbe, suffering from a cold and an irritating eye ailment, held the Giants to three hits. Nevertheless old King Carl Hubbell was winning a shutout 1-0 going into the eighth inning, when Rookie Mickey Wittek bobbled a double play chance and Gus Suhr punched a three-run homer over the roof of the rightfield grandstand.

Brooklyn's Whitlow Wyatt, a great righthander last season until he wrenched his knee and had to quit for the season, shut out the Boston Bees 5-0 on five hits.

The 34,342 fans who jammed Crosley Field at Cincinnati to capacity also saw a first-rate pitching scrap between their own

Music Meeting At 'Y' April 25

A large number of local people who are interested in music have been invited by the Department of Recreation to meet Thursday evening, April 25, at the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing and advising on the best type of instrumental musical program for this department to undertake.

The department of recreation has long pointed toward the development of a well-rounded musical program, but because of lack of leadership was unable to do this. At the present time Salvatore Castiglione, conductor of the WPA symphony orchestra, and well known as a leading musician of this section, is employed on the local recreational project, and makes it possible to undertake the type of program which will best serve the community.

Letters have been sent out to all of the leaders of the various local musical groups, and it is hoped that others who are interested in this type of a project will attend the meeting Thursday evening.

City Cleanup Is Postponed Week

Superintendent Ernest Steuding of the board of public works said today that owing to the snow storm of several days ago and the unfavorable weather conditions that had been prevailing that it had been decided to postpone Cleanup Week until the week of April 29.

This would afford householders a better opportunity to clean up their premises of the winter's accumulation of debris and rubbish.

Superintendent Steuding said that the debris could be piled up in the yard if desired and the city trucks would drive into the yard to pick it up if the request was made. Those who desire to have this done should telephone 2114.

MORE THAN BIG...
it's big in the right places!

Inside the car, where bigness really counts, you find a Ford V-8 extra big! Big by any measure, it's especially so at the important comfort points shown below. Check them now, then come in and try a Ford. It's got a lot of things like this that are just too good to miss!

A Measured from windshield to rear window, a Ford Sedan is 100 1/4 inches... this is longer than in a number of much higher-priced cars today!

B Kneeroom for rear-seat passengers in a Ford is considerably greater than that of any other car in its price class!

C With its compact V-type engine, the Ford is designed to carry rear-seat passengers farther ahead of the rear spring than any other car at this price—toward the center of the car where riding quality is best!

SURPRISING is the word for a 1940 Ford! Surprising because it gives so much you wouldn't expect at its low price. Surprising all-round performance, as proved when it won the big 3700-mile Argentine Grand Prize Road Race. Surprising gas economy, as proved when it gave most miles per gallon of all standard-equipped cars at its price in the Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run. Surprising in its big-car ride and room. Surprising in its long, long list of truly fine-car features. Come in today and get to know a Ford V-8!

This year talk "Trade" with your Ford Dealer first!
